TRIED HERE

And Held Over to Federal Court.

Deputy United States Marshal C. T. Nichols returned from Hopkinsville Sunday, where he had been to take two alleged bootleggers for trial before the commissioner of that district. Oatley Clark and Dick Clark were arrested for violating the internal revenue laws at Drakesboro, but had transferred their location to Greenville, where Mr. Nichols found them. The two men were held over to the May grand jury of federal court. Oatley Clark gave bond for his appearance, but Dick was unable to secure bail and was placed in the Daviess county jail. — Owensboro Messenger.

SUCCESSFUL INVENTOR

Realizes Fortune on Patent Wheat Binder.

Thomas Hadden, of Ferguson, Logan county, has sold his rights to a wheat binder that he had invented to an Indianapolis, Ind., company for $100,000 in cash. The invention that Mr. Hadden has perfected is said to be a great improvement over all types of wheat harvesting machines now being manufactured. He has been working on the machine for a number of years.

SKULL CRUSHED.

Negro Struck on Head and May Die.

Otho Jackson, col., of Pembroke, was struck on the head with a piling by another negro and his skull was badly fractured. The trouble occurred last Saturday night. The name of his assailant was not learned. It is thought that Jackson's injuries will result fatally. At last accounts no arrest had been made.

CHAUTAUQUA WEEK A GO

Fifty Citizens Guarantee Sale of $1,500 Advance Tickets.

AT $2 FOR THE SEASON.

Redpath Lyceum Bureau Will Furnish List of 21 Entertainments.

The last week in June is to be a gala week if the plans of some fifty odd business men are carried out. Representatives of the Redpath Chautauqua System have been in the city for several days trying to get the Tabernacle Association, or some other organization, to put on a Chautauqua here this summer. The proposition presented was on most too large a scale for any individual society to tackle, but the business men were interested and under the leadership of Mr. W. A. Wilgus worked out the plan that insures its success. Fifty enterprising business men signed a guarantee that more than $1,500 in season tickets would be sold before the Chautauqua opens, and some society or societies will be called in and asked to sell these tickets and in return they will receive a share of the profits over certain amounts, or a flat commission on the tickets sold.

The exact location has not yet been decided upon, there being several good places in view, one of which will be selected in due time. The Redpath Lyceum Bureau is the largest and most important Chautauqua Company in the United States and in order to present attractions, lecturers, etc., that would otherwise be entirely too expensive for a single Chautauqua to attempt, they have organized a circuit of thirty cities covering four states, including Maysville, Danville, Richmond, Winchester, Lexington, Bowling Green, Owensboro, Mayfield and Hopkinsville in Kentucky. These Chautauquas are opened in rotation, the Company having eight big tents with comfortable seating capacity for three thousand people, whereby they maintain seven Chautauquas operating at the same time, and the talent traveling only a short

HUNG JURY IN MILL CASE

Submitted at Ten O'clock Saturday Night After Week's Trial.

DISCHARGED 1 P. M. TUESDAY

Jury Said To Have Stood Ten For Conviction and Two For Acquittal.

After considering the case of J. B. Galbreath, former Secretary of the Acme Mills & Elevator Co., charged with embezzlement, for 62 hours, the jury reported that there was no likelihood of an agreement, and the jurors were finally discharged, at 1 P. m. Tuesday Judge Hanbery thanked them for their patient hearing of the case.

The jury stood ten for conviction and two for acquittal on every ballot taken, J. M. Crow and Dick Davis are said to have been the two jurors who held out for acquittal.

The jury was composed of Charles Lyle, J. C. Lyle, Willie Walker, W. T. Renshaw, C. W. White, Thos. Wright, Frank Isham, Ira C. O'Daniel, W. G. Henderson, John Haskins, J. M. Crow and Dick Davis.

OTHER MATTERS.

Grand Jury Adjourns After Finding 32 True Bills.

Circuit Court finished its fifteenth day yesterday and for a few days at least will settle down to a quiet run, with no interesting cases on the docket.

The grand jury adjourned Tuesday after finding a total of 32 indictments.

In the last batch were the following:

Herbert Marbut, assault and battery
John Hicks, petit larceny.
Arthur Washington, burglary.
Bethel Trammell, horse stealing.
All of the above cases have been set for the 26th day, the parties being in jail. Other indictments are: Jim Thomas, petit larceny.
Arthur Hall, hog stealing.
Gus Robb, and Sam Harris, robbery.

Three other indictments against parties not yet in custody.

Disposed Of.

Leslie Word vs. Minnie Word, divorce granted.

W. J. Garnett vs. William Holland, set for 35th day.

ner, of this place, says, "For years,
I had a pain in my right side, and
was very sick with womanly troubles.
I tried different doctors but could get no relief. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I took

Negro Chicken.

What next in the chicken business?
A few days ago, while killing and picking thousands of chickens, preparing them for the Eastern markets, one of the employees of the Naive Spillers Produce Company, of this city, discovered a chicken with a jet black skin. The bird is the first ever known to have been found with a skin of this color, and has been carefully preserved in alcohol.
The question arises, whether a black or white hen laid the egg that produced the bird with the black skin?
The specimen will be sent to the Smithsonian Institution.—Nashville

The Men Who Succeed.

As heads of large enterprises are men of great energy. Success, today, demands health. To fail is to fail. It's utter folly for a man to endure a weak, run-down, half alive condition
when Electric Bitters will put him right on his feet in short order.
"Four bottles did me more real good than any other medicine I ever took,"
writes Chas. E. Allen, Sylvania, Ga.,

matism, liver trouble, stomach disorders and deranged kidneys, I am

Suicide Pact.

Chicago, March 13.—Apparently fulfilling a suicide agreement, Adolph Gerlink, a carpenter, and his other's arms clad in the garments

they had worn to a dance.

Many Driven From Home.

Every year in many parts of the country, thousands are driven from their homes by coughs and lung diseases. Friends and business are left behind for other climates, but this is costly and not always sure. A better way—the way of multitudes—is to use Dr. King's New Discovery and cure yourself at home. Stay right there, with your friends, and take this safe medicine. Throat and lung troubles find quick relief and health returns. Its help in coughs, colds, grip, croup, whooping cough
and sore lungs make it a positive blessing, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

Beneficent Scheme.

ter?
Mr. Maychantz—I'm going to give every man, woman and child in my shop a pleasant surprise next month.
Mr. Spotsch—Glad to hear it.
What's the scheme?
Mr. Maychantz—You know the month comes in on Thursday, and this is a leap year. Well, I'm going to make Thursday the pay-day for a few weeks, so they'll have five paydays in February. It'll tickle 'em
most to death.

A Fine Model.

"It is doubtful," said the author of entertaining sea stories, "whether a man ought to attempt to write things outside of his personal observation."
"But take your own case. You are writing of pirates, yet you never saw one."
"No. I never saw one. But when I want to write a good description of a pirate, I shut my eyes and think of my publisher."

What We Never Forget.

According to science, are the things
associated with our early home life,
such as Bucklen's Arnica Salve, a

our burns, boils, scalds, sores, skin
eruptions, cuts, sprains or bruises.
Forty years of cures prove its merit.

ONE MORE WONDERFUL ROAD

Great Highway Through the Dolomites Connects Lake District of Italy and Bavaria.

In May, 1910, the new highway
through the Dolomites, running from Bolzen to Toblach, was finally thrown open. It is a miracle of able engineering and serves as connecting link between the Lake district of Italy and Bavaria.

Or, if one has large cities for one's objective points, between Milan or Venice and Munich. It is worth trying, says a writer in Harper's Weekly, to convey an impression of the magnificent scenery, the picturesque and wonderful country through which
this highroad, as smooth and perfect
as Riverside Drive, since the recent repairs, leads one.

Bolzen on the south and Toblach on the north are the entrance gates to the great, gaunt Dolomites. It was a burgher of Bolzen, one Heinrich Kun-ter, who first obtained permission to hew a road from the Brenner Pass to Bolzen. He began the undertaking in the year 1314 A. D., and it is to be hoped that his happy ghost rejoices
today in the perfect fulfillment of his idea.

The one disappointment to the motorist on this great road is that the short cut from Bolzen to Vigo di Fassa, leading through the lovely Eggen-thal and past the Karer See, is closed to motors. For those who can foot it it is worth while to bid adieu to the wonderful valley, making the ascent of the lonely Karer, going up between the gloomy chalk cliffs, along steep ridges, looking far away over the valley and the rolling mountains
beyond, and so learning really to know and feel these gaunt ghosts of mountains that have earned by their whiteness and ready reflections the title "Mountains of Light."

LAW TO MUZZLE ROOSTERS

In Los Angeles They Mustn't Crow
Before 7 in the Morning, If Ordinance Passes.

Los Angeles roosters must get together on their crowing. The city attorney has been asked to draft an ordinance which will make it unlawful for roosters to crow earlier than 7
o'clock in the morning, Pacific time.
There must be more unity of effort
among the chanticleers—less of individual endeavor at any old hour of the night that the rooster feels like crowing.

Mrs. Genevieve Dalrymple, of 2359
East Seventh street, in taking her complaint to the city council, merely acted as messenger for many thousands who are unable to sleep because of crowing roosters, who start about midnight and keep it up until morning.

"Leave it to the city attorney. He will find some way to fix it," said
Chairman Andrews of the legislation committee. With this meager instruction, John W. Shenk, the city attorney, started somewhat on this order:
"The mayor and city council of the city of Los Angeles do ordain that it shall be unlawful for roosters to crow
between the hours of 7 p. m. and 7
a. m. All roosters found guilty of violation of this ordinance shall be sentenced to be the principal ingredient of a popple."

However, the difficulty of enforcing an ordinance worded as outlined was apparent to the city attorney, and he will prepare a draft of one along some other line. It has been suggested that the roosters be muzzled, or that some sort of an operation on their throats be performed so that their exultant efforts may end in dismal gurgles. However, what will be done is still uncertain.—Los Angeles Tribune.

Bravery of the Cree Indians.

Many episodes of noble self-sacrifice might be related about the Crees,
though they themselves never mention them. The stoical Indian woman does her duty and speaks of her life only when questioned concerning it.
Occasionally one is found who will assert her woman's rights. I once saw a stalwart squaw chasing her husband around and around the wigwam, brandishing an ax and threatening to kill him, a feat she was quite capable of putting into execution. Upon another occasion an Indian asked me to "speak good things" to his wife as he was "ill."
Usually, however, the women are patient sufferers, willing slaves and beasts of burden. Widows are eagerly sought in marriage, owing to the fact that they inherit their dead husbands' hunting grounds. Frequently a young man is mated to a woman
of twice his age.—Wide World Magazine.

Jewish Population.

In all the world there are 11,483,876 Jews. Of this number 8,876,299 are in Europe and 1,880,579 in America.
The Russian empire has 5,215,805, the United States following with 1,800,000.
The city of Warsaw leads Russia with 220,000, as compared with New York's 905,000. In Chicago the Jewish population numbers 98,000, while Philadelphia leads Chicago by 2,000. In New York are found one-thirteenth part of the entire Jewish race. Every fourth person in New York is a Jew. It may be said that the Jews in London
number only some 150,000.

GLUCK AND EMPEROR JOSEPH

Composer Harshly Told Austrian
Monarch That Archduke Sang
His Music Wretchedly.

Gluck, the composer, was not of the sort of men of whom courtiers are made. One day he attended, at the court at Vienna, a concert at which the Emperor Joseph II. and one of his archdukes sang a fragment from one of Gluck's compositions. Naturally enough, the imperial artists glanced at the composer to see how he was impressed by the honor they were doing him. They were shocked to observe that he was making a series of extraordinary and significant grimaces. The emperor stopped and inquired whether he and the archduke
were not singing the bit according to Gluck's idea of how it should be done.

"My idea!" exclaimed Gluck. "Why,
sire, I am the poorest walker in the world, but I would vastly rather take a walk of six leagues than be forced to hear a composition of my own interpreted in such a way as that."

Joseph II. was brave enough to take no notice of the criticism, but the court were quite convinced that if such a reproach had been addressed to the Czar Nicholas the composer
would have prosecuted his musical studies from that time forth under the unfavorable surroundings of the Siberian mines.

It was the composer Weigl, a man
of very different temperament from Gluck, who, when the Emperor Francis Joseph played the first violin in the performance of one of his overtures, threw himself at the monarch's feet, and exclaimed: "Ah, sire. Will your majesty benignantly condescend
to grant my prayer, and favor me
once more with a most gracious 'F
sharp?'"

BOOKSTAND SENT BY MAIL

Contains Forty Volumes of Shakespe-peare, But Whole Package Weighs Only Pound and a Half.

A revolving bookstand, six inches
high, containing the complete works
of Shakespeare in forty volumes, the whole weighing only one and one-half pounds, was the unique package
which passed through the registry division of the postoffice yesterday.

The tiny volumes themselves measured two and one-half inches, and were about one-eighth of an inch in thickness. Although the print was extremely fine, it could be easily
read.

The case was surmounted with a small marble bust of the Avon bard,
and was addressed to Longview, Tex.,
from Glasgow, England.

The parcel was opened by Hans Glatta, special customs examiner of mail importations, who is inclined to believe the expressed valuation of the publisher, $11.50, is too low, and a new appraisal will be made.

The miniature books were bound and printed in every detail after the fashion of editions of ordinary size,
with gilt print and leather binding.
The articles attracted so much attention that Henry Smith, in charge of the registry division, exhibited it to the corps of women, under Mrs. T.
J. Atkins, who were selling hospital tags in the postoffice. The device was thereupon declared "Just too
cute" no less than fifty times.—St.
Louis Globe-Democrat.

Shakespeare Ruled Out.

One by one our tottering idols fall.
The Shakespeare convention has just been given the coup de grace by a literary club out west, which, after a spirited debate, ruled that William of Stratford is "licentious, unclean, objectionable," and should be displaced in study classes by the chaste G. B.
Shaw.

Mr. Shaw may well be alarmed
sometimes to find his teasing banter
about Shakespeare and mock tintrumping of himself as Shakespepeare's superior taken so very solemnly.

Why cannot people understand, or take the trouble to understand (even people in "literary clubs"), that Shaw
the persiflage is behind the comic mask the genuine lover of Shakespe-peare, whose protest as dramatic critic was against, not genuine and intelligent admiration for Shakespe-peare, but the conventional and sham
"hardolatry" and the meretricious
renderings which forgot—that "the play's the thing" and smother it in tinsel and rose pink.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Fortune Cast Up by the Sea.

A shoal of sperm whales, numbering 37 in all, were stranded on a small sandy island named Perkins Island,
on the northwest coast of Tasmania,
recently. A syndicate was formed to exploit these unfortunate castaways,
and nearly every whale was found to contain ambergris, a valuable substance greatly in demand amongst perfumers and others. The shareholders expect to realize a profit of between $50,000 and $75,000—a nice little sum to be cast up by the sea.—

Professional Nurse as Wife.

Sir James Crichton-Brown of London, England, says a nurse makes an ideal wife, and he urges young men
in selecting helpmates to consider
first the quality and character of the nurses whom they know. He says that a training in a hospital fits a woman finely for home life. She is taught the nutritive value of foods,
learns first aid and understands thoroughly how to care for children, and is able to act in emergency.

THREE THINGS YOU NEED..

First— "Kentuckian"

A virile, newsy newspaper with the interest of the entire community at heart. Issues of the day are handled without fear or favor. You will find in this paper an up-to-date department for each member of the family. Clean, honest, straightforward—it is a paper your family should not be without.

Second— Technical World Magazine

It is the one magazine that not only entertains in a fascinating manner, but which also instructs. It is the magazine for the busy business man, or for the person who wants to lull away a summer's afternoon, and be agreeably informed at the same time. It is profusely illustrated, and tells in a simple and interesting way of the discoveries of scientists, the achievements of inventors, the facts of engineering and exploration, and the opening of every new field of human endeavor. What Jack London says:—"I have just chanced upon my first copy of TECHNICAL WORLD MAGAZINE. There isn't anything like it. I want more, and I cannot wait for them to come, so I am sending you herewith check for which please enter my subscription and send me immediately the last two years' back numbers."

Third— A Fine Atlas

This one is just off the presses. This is the year to obtain a new atlas. The 1910 Census has just been completed, this atlas contains the official figures. 122 pages of 8 color maps brought right down to date—every map giving the results of the most recent surveys. All railroads are shown and named and maps of all large cities are included. There are 21 double page maps showing in detail portions of the U. S. and Canada. Dimensions 10" x 13 1/2". Bound in stiff linen—Silver Leaf Title—printed on heavy plate paper. Sells regularly for $3.00. A splendid gift.

ALL THREE
Only $3.80

Special arrangement with Technical World Magazine and the publishers of this Atlas make this offer possible. But it is very strictly limited. You must act immediately.

KING'S WAR ROBE ON VIEW

At the Museum in New York City
You May See the Feathers
Kamehameha III. Wore.

As an example of the past royalty of Hawaiian kings, a remarkable feathered war robe, once the property of Kamehameha III., and said to be the equal in value of diamond ornaments in several of the European regalia, is displayed in the hall of South Sea Islands at the American Museum of Natural History. This emblem of Hawaiian royalty was presented by the king of the islands to Commodore Lawrence Kearney, U. S. N., in 1843. It is a war cape with a history and, according to Dr. Brigham, an authority on Hawaiian feather work, a similar cloak, completed in the reign of one of the kings of the islands, was in process of fabrication through eight previous eras.

The Kamehameha royal cape is made of innumerable feathers of the Ili and Oo birds, which were hunted in the ravines and wooded slopes of the mountains of Hawaii for the decoration of these robes of rank. The royal cape, which is crescent-shaped, consists entirely of small red and yellow feathers, which are interwoven upon a fiber network made from the bark of the Olona plant. Contrary to the custom of the Peruvians, who first made the feathers fast to a cord and then knotted the cord to a cloth, the Hawaiians attached the feathers separately to the netting.

Although a fortune in labor is represented, the feathered war robe only weighs six pounds. It was presented to the museum by George S. Bowdoin, and is mounted flat between two plates of glass, as is another specimen, which is said to have been used by a former owner as a sleigh robe, in ignorance of its great value.

Among the noted collections containing specimens of this craft are those at Windsor castle, which includes examples given by Queen Victoria, and Lord Brassy's, whose trophies include a rope brought to England by Captain Cook. In the archives of the Hawaiian Islands a history of each cloak made has been inscribed. The capes are sometimes worn at ceremonials in the islands to denote the rank of the wearer.

Baseball Language.

Baseball language, like West Point French, is something different. Like all successful literature, it embodies the attempt of the intellect to surmount obstacles. In poetry the obstacle is rhyme and rhythm; in drama it is the "unities," the principle of suspended interest, the need to tell a complete story in less than three hours. In baseball writing the obstacle is the fact that there are only two things in the game, batting and fielding; that in each of the two big leagues there are about 150 games to be reported, one very like another, and that the sapience of "fandom" is such that its members by scanning the scoring tables can visualize a game as completely as the broker can visualize a scene on 'change from his ticker.

The problem of the sporting column is to tell the reader something he cannot get from the score, and so to report day after day for six months the interplay of batting and fielding, that one day's story shall be unlike another's. Hence the flights of fancy which turn a ball into a "pill," a pitcher's arm into a "salary whip" and his "fast one" into his "smoke." Hence the conception of an emergency pitcher as at once "the wrecking crew" and old "Doc Crandall."

Bride's Love of a Clay Pipe.

Rather than give up smoking her cherished clay pipe an Irish bride named Johanna Wood has left the workhouse at Faversham, Kent. Her husband, who was also an inmate of the workhouse, has left with her.

With a careless disregard of the fact that they were both practically destitute, the man and the woman, whose ages are respectively sixty-two and forty-nine, were married on December 11. The honeymoon was spent at the workhouse.

"Mrs. Wood," stated one of the workhouse officials yesterday, "seemed to find her greatest source of pleasure in tobacco. She smoked a clay pipe and would not have parted with it for anything. On being taxed with smoking in the workhouse she said: 'I cannot do without my pipe; I have smoked since I was a little girl.' She was told that she must either give up smoking or leave the workhouse. She elected to take the latter course and left with her husband."—London Daily Mail.

Too Much.

Willis—What was the cause of his death?

Giulia—The doctors said it was an excess of pure joy. He had just shaved himself with a razor that made his face feel like the advertisement, put on a suit of clothes that made him look like the advertisement and was smoking a brand of tobacco that smoked like the advertisement—Satire.

Sounds Plausible.

"Why do you suppose our ancestors had those atrocious daguerreotypes taken?"

"I suppose to prove that they might have been worse looking than they really were."

A Chipper Chopper.

Customer—I want to order my wife a round.

Butcher—So do I mine, sir; but she orders me around.

FINGER PRINTS TELL TALES

Absolute Identification Certain When
the Practiced Sleuth Takes Up
the Trail.

Many years ago Mark Twain, in his delightful story of "Puddin' Head Wilson," declared that every man's identity, and often, even his destiny, is always on his finger tips. Twice on one day this has been recognized in different parts of the country. It was found that the men who used a launch for the purpose of taking dynamite from the Giant powder works were not the McNamaras. Several finger prints completely exploded the theory. They are, however, the tracks by which others may be overtaken. There could be no doubt that "Edgar R. Jay" arrested in St. Louis for forgery a week after he had married, is Jay Gould Hay, alias Jay Gould, alias Jule Lee. He can not escape the identity of his finger prints at the Indiana and Missouri reformatories.

It was only last year that there were two remarkable warnings to the criminal class to wear gloves. Charles Crispien was arrested and convicted for burglary in New York solely because he left behind on window glass four finger marks. They were only a few hairline etchings, but they singled out of millions of people the only one who could have made them. It was difficult to obtain a jury that would convict on finger print evidence alone, but when it was shown that there is only one chance in sixty-four billions that two finger prints will be alike, that there was no great likelihood of any two of the 1,600,000,000 people now on the earth being able to make the same finger markings, the prisoner gave up. Again, in New York, was the remarkable case growing out of the murder of Isaac Vogel, an itinerant jewel broker. It was a single imprint of a finger on a silver cigarette case that led to the arrest of Joseph Roberts.

Thus far finger print evidence is associated in the public mind with criminology. But the day may come when people registering to vote will be required to press their thumb down next to their names. Philadelphia reformers, who are battling against the floater and duplicate voting system, advocate it. They insist that it is only a step beyond requiring the voter to write his name at registration and again—by the side of the first signature—when he comes to vote. It is thought the finger print would stop floaters.

Belasco's Flowery Apology.

David Belasco, who bows with such modesty before the curtain calls that greet the presentation of his dramatic successes, occasionally loses his temper during rehearsals of plays, and when he gets angry he does the thing up brown. For the time being, there isn't a peaceful thought in his fertile brain. When he began the rehearsals of "Sweet Kitty Bellairs," Miss Henrietta Crossman, the star of the piece, warned him that he must not scold her.

A few days before the first public production, however, Belasco broke out in one of his fine tempers, and Miss Crossman, with head in the air, left the stage and the theater. She was walking rapidly up the street when she heard the rush of footsteps behind her. Turning around, she saw the manager, with his arms full of flowers. These he held out to her imploringly.

This tribute effected a reconciliation. On the way back to the theater the star noticed a flower stand completely denuded of its stock. Belasco in his pursuit of the fleeing actress, had bought all the flowers in sight.—From Twice-a-month Popular Magazine.

Bother the Button!

All know the annoying habit buttons have of coming off at a moment when they are most needed, says "Answers." It seems sometimes as though nothing short of wire thread will keep them in their places; and even wire breaks away from the cloth.

When next you are sewing on a button, follow these directions, and that button will never trouble you again.

Place your button, take a hairpin—a strong one—and lay it across the button, then sew it over the hairpin. When you have put as much thread through the eyes as they will hold, withdraw the hairpin. Then push the needle through near the button, pull the button up, and wrap the thread several times round between the button and garment. Fasten the thread on the under side of the button, and then you will find that that button will stay on until the garment is worn out.

Cooking the 'Possum.

Mayor Bryan Callaghan of San Antonio, Tex., is very fond of 'possum and is particular about the way it is prepared for the table. He gives the following directions:

"Never plunge a 'possum into boiling water. That hardens the flesh and makes it tough. First bleed the 'possum, and after it is drawn immerse it in a pot of cold water and bring the water to a boil. After being parboiled for a reasonable time, take it out, put some laurel leaves, a little oil and some chili peppers inside it and pack in ice and put aside for a day or two.

"When ready to be cooked, put it into a bake pan and surround with sweet potatoes, brown to a turn and you have a dish that is about as delicious as any that can be prepared."

KENTUCKY'S BIG CONTEST

BEGINS APRIL 1, 1912.

The aristocracy of American "chickendom" is about to be established through the Evening Post's great egg laying contest. At the end of a competition which shall cover a period of six months, it will be possible to determine which breed of American hen is the greatest egg producer. Then, for the time in "handom," the fowl which has contributed so largely and faithfully to the tables of the nations will be entitled to the specific rank of "queen among hens."

The scene of this unique competition will be "Belair," the beautiful stock farm of Senator Thomas H. Paynter, near Frankfort, Ky. Senator Paynter's son, T. P. Paynter, has consented to act in the capacity of general manager of the contest, and will be assisted by an executive board of prominent stock and poultry raisers. "Belair" is one of the most famous stock farms of Kentucky, and in extending the advantages of this famous place to the promoters of the egg laying contest, Senator Paynter has done a great service for the egg industry throughout the United States. "Belair" is also the home of the noted horse, "Gen. Forrest," now owned by a cousin of the Russian ambassador to the United States.

MRS. BRECKINRIDGE

Will Lecture To-morrow Evening On Woman's Work.

Mrs. Desha Breckinridge, of Lexington, will be in Hopkinsville to-morrow by invitation of the Civil Improvement League, and at night will deliver an address at the Christian Church upon the subject, "Woman's Work and Model Schools."

Mrs. Breckinridge is a granddaughter of Henry Clay and is one of the most intellectual women in Kentucky, whose platform utterances have made a profound impression wherever heard. Her address will be public and all are invited to hear it. At its conclusion there will be an informal reception in the class rooms of the church. The League is bringing to Hopkinsville one of the most prominent women in Kentucky, and she will no doubt be accorded a most cordial reception.

During her stay in the city, Mrs. Breckinridge will be the guest of Rev. and Mrs. C. H. H. Branch, on Fifteenth street.

WALL & MCGOWAN

LEGISLATURE PLAYS QUILTS.

Busy Scenes Marked The Closing Hours In Both Houses.

ANOTHER DRASTIC DRY LAW.

Penalty To Deliver Liquor To Another In Dry Territory, or To Purchase or Procure It.

Frankfort, Ky., March 12.—Busy scenes marked the close of the general assembly.

The early hours this evening were consumed in the presentation of gifts by members and officials of the House to Speaker Terrell, Chief Clerk Stone, and Sergeant-at-arms Vest.

The Speaker was given a diamond stud and diamond ring, Clerk Stone received a solid silver coffee set, while Mr. Vest was given a silver set.

One of the late bills was that creating McCreary out of parts of Wayne, Pulaski and Whitley. It has been signed by the Governor, making 120 counties.

Another very drastic liquor bill was passed. It makes it unlawful "to purchase, procure or deliver" liquor in dry territory. According to this one person cannot "procure" liquor from another's jug, nor can one man "deliver" a drink to a sick friend. Express companies cannot deliver packages from one point in the State to another and social clubs will be put out of business in dry territory, since it will be unlawful to even serve liquor to another.

A large number of bills are left in the Governor's hands, which will be passed upon within the next ten days.

POWDER DEMONSTRATION

Haynes Company Will Make a Test in Hopkinsville.

George H. Hauser, special representative of the Haynes Safety Powder company of Cleveland, Ohio, was at the L. & N. office yesterday arranging for a special train which will be run from Henderson, Ky., to Hopkinsville, Ky., next week where he will demonstrate his powder. The train will make all stops, in order that any one who wishes to witness the demonstration may do so without any expense.

The new powder which has been on the market a little over two years is the latest invention in high explosives. The great point in its favor is that it will explode only from a spark. A jar of great force will not set it off under any circumstances. Another way in which it is different from the ordinary blasting powder is that it will not freeze and thus the thawing of dynamite is eliminated. Another unusual feature of Hynesite is that it will not explode unless it is confined.

A test which was satisfactory in every way was given two weeks ago at Providence, Ky. The men were able to return to the room in which four shots had been fired one minute after the last one was set off. There are no deadly fumes given off by this explosive. Local operators are much interested in the new powder and several tests will be held in this vicinity soon.—Evansville Courier.

The man who howls about the passing of the basket in church will give a big tip to a hotel waiter with a smile on his face.

VARDAMAN'S CHOICE

The Mississippi Senator-Elect Says Underwood is The Best Man For Presidency.

OSCAR W.
UNDERWOOD

As house leader of the Democratic majority and chairman of the ways and means committee, Mr. Underwood has directed the tariff policy of his party, not always to the entire satisfaction of some of its other leaders, but in a way that has gained him the enthusiastic support of a considerable number in his candidacy for the presidential nomination. He is a little slow in starting his campaign for delegates, but has been making up for lost time since definitely announcing himself.

Washington, March 13.—Senator-elect James K. Vardaman, of Mississippi, has declared himself in favor of the nomination of Oscar W. Underwood for President.

"I think the tariff will be the pre-eminent issue of the present campaign," he said "and the Democrats will persistently keep it to the front. Mr. Underwood more nearly represents in his views the Democratic attitude toward the tariff than any other man in the race. He is a young man of splendid poise, sound judgment, good, hard, common sense and rugged honesty, and I think he would make an admirable President. If nominated it is my opinion that he would defeat either of the two leading candidates now seeking the Republican nomination.

ness men ready to attend to all your wants. Forty years ago if any one had been so daring as to prophesy what she has accomplished, he would either have been locked up as a dangerous citizen or put in the Ananias Club.

But towns may go and cities come, but there has never been nor ever will be better people than lived in that old town. They lived well up to their opportunities. By their energy, industry and frugality they were enabled to give their children educational advantages, while the religious and moral training of those pious good mothers, and the courageous progressive spirit of the fathers made the New Hopkinsville possible. Oh, they were grand people! I can feel again the warm handclasp, see the merry twinkle in their eyes. Social, hospitable and charitable, I was proud of them and am proud of you. But let us not forget the pictures are moving. Well has the immortal bard said:

NEXT ATTRACTION

Last of Regular Course at The Tabernacle.

Edward Elliott, monologist, will appear at the Tabernacle March 18. With the present season Mr. Elliott inaugurated his twentieth year in his art of enacting stories from the stage. These years have been devoted wholly to his profession, a life work. He takes some play that has been a great success and credit to the stage, arranges it into a concise story told by the characters. These characters are acted out, made real living people—no wigs, scenery nor costumes are employed, but you are made to see the play as vividly almost as though acted out by a company of players. You hear it with an artistic unity, a definiteness of purpose and in an atmosphere impossible in any stage performance.

To Sink The Maine.

Havana, March 14.—Col. William M. Black, and Lieut. Col. Mason M. Patrick, members of the board of engineers, which has had charge of raising the Maine, arrived here, and consulted with Major Ferguson, who has supervised the actual work, with reference to the floating out and sinking of the old battleship. Major Ferguson reported that all arrangements were complete, and the board decided to consult with the Cuban authorities, to arrange details of the ceremony, which has been fixed for Saturday.

SALE OF A FRANCHISE

Which Is Expected To Be Purchased By The Hopkinsville Water Co.

AT THE CITY HALL FRIDAY.

Ordinance Approved Feb. 27th
Authorizing The Sale To Be Made.

According to an ordinance passed last month there will be offered for sale to-morrow, at the City Building, a franchise for a system of water works in the city for a period of 20 years. The notices posted by City Clerk H. W. Tibbs fix the hour for the sale at 10 o'clock a. m. It is expected that the franchise will be bought by the Hopkinsville Water Co., which began business in 1895. The minimum bid entertained will be an amount equal to the cost of the official publication of the ordinance, the advertisement of the notice of sale and the expenses of the council meetings held for passing the ordinances ordering the sale and ratifying same.

Pioneer Passes Away.

William Finley, aged ninety-seven years, probably the oldest man in Southwestern Kentucky, died from pneumonia at his home in Trigg county. He was a native of Virginia, settling in Trigg county about fifty years ago. He is survived by his wife and two children.

Moving Pictures

Editor of the Kentuckian:

If you keep on living, (and I most sincerely trust you will be spared many useful years) you will find the old live a great deal in the past. As I belong to that class, with your permission, will recall a moving picture of years ago, the film of which I shall always retain.

In 1868, forty-four years ago, in response to a telegram, on a cold dismal evening, I stepped off the train at old Hopkinsville and taking a bus, was soon registered at what afterwards was the "Cooper House." The town then had the appearance of an old dilapidated rookery. Nearly all the buildings were frame, one and two stories high and needing painting badly. After a good early breakfast I boarded the Cadiz mail hack. There had been a flood, overflowing the water courses, spreading the ponds, followed by a blizzard and snow storm. So we just had to go through fields, woods or any way we could. Finally we reached Bellevue, where, after changing horses and mail, we were joined by dear Dr. Lev Lindsey, whose charming personality abridged the distance to Montgomery, where we were met by that prince of hospitality, Gen. J. W. Gaines.

On our return trip conditions were unchanged in regard to roads and weather, snow and ice, even the trees were loaded down with snow and the very atmosphere had a frozen, frothy look. On account of a pond spreading over several acres we had to make quite a detour through the woods, and while doing so, our driver, who was a raw young Irishman just over from the old country, suddenly pulled up his team and said very excitedly, "And what in the devil is that?" Glancing out I saw that prettiest of all animals, white as snow with beautiful black spots. Oh! he was so pretty! Being raised in the country, and having had experience I recognized him at once. But as my young friend had been regaling me by telling of so many wonderful curiosities we didn't have in this country I joined in his enthusiasm and told him that if he didn't want it for a pet the fur made a lovely muff. I grabbed the reins and told him to catch it at all hazards. Throwing off his overcoat and hat, whip in hand, he chased him from tree to tree over a considerable territory. Being handicap-

ed with over shoes and leggins, I began to fear the Mephitic Americana was going to get the better of him, but his Irish blood was up and he had grit. So finally the poor little innocent looking creature lay down on his back as good as to say, Well, you win. I'll surrender on the terms of honorable warfare i. e., that I be allowed to retain my side arms." This to the honest Irish youth looked fair, so rolling his whip around its staff he started to pick it up, never dreaming there could be any treachery in anything clothed in such ermine-like costume. But alas! there had been nothing said about concealed weapons. I will venture to say that if that Irishman is living today he wouldn't pick a lady's lace handkerchief off a marble top dresser without the closest inspection. Even when I think of it now I am bound, as "Marse Henry" would say, to "larf and larf." Had I laughed then this story would never have been told, for that Irishman would have murdered me and left me in the woods, I believe his feelings were hurt as it was.

It then was a hard day's drive from Hopkinsville to Cadiz even with a relay of horses. Now you take your seat in the car and read your morning paper. Your town then had only one unfinished railroad. Now you have three with prospects of more. Instead of having to wait days and possibly weeks to hear from a friend you can sit in your cosy room and talk to him miles away, or if you wish to visit him, with a machine space is annihilated. Now even in the country the daily mail is brought to our door. Instead of going to the town pump you turn a faucet in your house. Instead of an occasional lamp post, thousands of electric lights turn night into day. Look at your beautiful concrete walks, stately churches, magnificent school buildings, factories, mills, plants for various industries, electric power printing presses turning out thousands of dailies, while it used to take a number of strong men working day and night to coax the old hand press to get the weekly out on time. For ten cents I am told most any hour in the week you can see a better show than we did by paying a dollar. Hopkinsville, the ramshackle old town that it once was, is now an up-to-date city with all modern improvements, with wide awake business men ready to attend to all your wants. Forty years ago if any one had been so daring as to prophesy what she has accomplished, he would either have been locked up as a dangerous citizen or put in the Ananias Club.

But towns may go and cities come, but there has never been nor ever will be better people than lived in that old town. They lived well up to their opportunities. By their energy, industry and frugality they were enabled to give their children educational advantages, while the religious and moral training of those pious good mothers, and the courageous progressive spirit of the fathers made the New Hopkinsville possible. Oh, they were grand people! I can feel again the warm handclasp, see the merry twinkle in their eyes. Social, hospitable and charitable, I was proud of them and am proud of you. But let us not forget the pictures are moving. Well has the immortal bard said:

"The world is a stage,"
And we are but actors."
Sooner or later the curtain will ring down on all. Be ready.

From The Hogwallow Kentuckian

The Blind Man from the Calf Ribs section was over today to see Cricket Hicks.

Lemuel Henstep died this week in the Calf Ribs neighborhood. Besides the earth he leaves two children.

The Deputy Constable, who is an avowed candidate for re-election, was over at Rye Straw shaking hands with the voter in that precinct this week.

Poke Easley has been sent to Bounding Billows by his wife after a large wash kettle, which he will have to pack home. Poke is her second husband.

The strange, bulky object that was seen moving along the road toward Hogwallow yesterday afternoon has turned out to be nothing but Columbus Allsop and his bass fiddle.

Washington Hocks is recuperating from an overdose of rough-on-rats, which he took by mistake for salve a few nights ago, and is able to sit up at the eating table with his clothes on.

The editor of the Tickville Tidings has declared for Bryan in the presidential race and intends to see to it that he is elected. All that now remains is the selection of some good man for vice president.

A lady friend from the Calf Ribs neighborhood is preparing to arrive in Hogwallow to be the guest of Miss Flutie Belcher. The visitor will wear her best clothes and expects to attract a good deal of favorable attention.

Somebody raised the window at the Wild Onion school house Friday night and stole the supply of red ink. The identity of the thief is not known, but let Raz Barlow get tanked up on red ink and he is one of the finest scribes in this section.

The Mail Carrier is expected now any day. He left Tickville as usual four days ago bound for this place, and if he does not reach here within the next few days the public will come to the conclusion that he has been delayed by some unforeseen circumstance over which he had no control.

Fit Smith passed through this place late yesterday evening followed by a drove of hawks. He had a sack of shelled corn on his shoulder, and the corn was noticed spilling out at a hole that had been made in one corner of the sack by Fit. This is what might be termed stealing hawks under false pretenses.

It is reported that Prof. Sap Spradlen is about to begin literary labors in the writing of a diary of himself, enumerating in particular the many things he has not done during the past year. The postmaster will supply the writing paper for this job and has sent off for the best price on paper in large lots.

Jefferson Potlocks, who raised a fine crop of broom corn last season, has finished the work of making it up into brooms, and started with a wagon load of them for Thunderation Thursday morning. When in the proximity of the Gimlet creek bridge the mules ran away and swept down the road for several miles before they could be stopped.

Cricket Hicks has at last attracted some attention in this community through his ingenuity in the invention of a patent fly trap, which is expected to be put into operation with the opening of the fly season. The trap is too complicated to describe, and is so arranged that if a fly ever finds its way inside it gets confused, and could never in the world get out. The trap has a main entrance and also a side entrance.

Slim Flinders lit his lantern after every other honest man had gone to bed, Tuesday night, and raided a smokehouse on Musket Ridge. On the way to the scene he stopped carefully along the way and covered up all of his tracks as fast as he made them, thus making it impossible for him to be tracked, and after having reached the smokehouse he turned his lantern down right soft and low and entered by digging a hole under the door. After placing two hawk jowls and a ham in his sack he was making all necessary preparations for departure but in some way the owner of the meat was awakened, and came in pursuit. Slim soon outran the pursuer, and climbed a tall tree on the top limb of which he expected to remain until the excitement blew over, but in some way the owner of the meat came straight to the tree and ordered him down. After reaching the earth again Slim broke down and confessed his guilt, and a compromise was effected by Slim letting him have one of the jowls back. Slim still wonders how that fellow knew he was up the tree, and cannot imagine unless it was on account of the lantern he forgot to blow out.

BURNED JUDAS IN EFFIGY

In That Way the Guides Showed Their Love for the Christian Religion.

We hanged Judas Iscariot today.
Having expressed our joy over the resurrection of Christ by gorging our selves with roast lamb and bitter wine, by firing guns, rockets and terpedoes and by lighting bonfires, we gave vent to our remaining enthusiasm in one grand burst of mock vengeance directed against the unfortunate mortal who was destined from the foundation of the world to figure
as a cat's paw in the plan of salvation.
The burning took place in the front of a little church of the Virgin, situated on the highest part of the city.
From a pole erected before the door
hung a crude, wretched, melancholy
figure, stuffed with straw, and ridiculously suggesting the image of a man.
Within the church the priest was conducting the regular Sunday service.
At last the doors were thrown wide open and the whole congregation
gushed forth like water from a broken
dam, and immediately thereafter every man and boy in the square was shooting away at the effigy. Poor Judas whirled about and danced in the air as the bullets peppered him, and suddenly burst into flames. When a Greek feels particularly happy, or wishes to express his enthusiasm he produces an old musket or pistol and discharges it. Resurrection Day in Greece resembles the Fourth of July
in the United States.—George Horton

WAS ALWAYS ON THE JOB

Mr. Singleton Discovers a New Situation With Danger From Street Beggars.

"For a long time," said Mr. Bingleton, "I have made it a custom to look carefully in either direction before stopping to look in at a show window,
doing this to avoid being taken by surprise by beggars. Now I have discovered another street situation in which one must take like care.

"Walking along the street this morning I became conscious that one of my shoestrings was untied and I looked along for a convenient store
step on which I could put my foot up;
and there I did put it up, and I was busily engaged in tying the string,
working away at it with no other
thought in the world, when—

"'Mister,' I heard a voice at my ear, 'can you give me five cents to get a cup of coffee? I haven't had—'

"And there he stood beside me,
close alongside, where he had me at a disadvantage. He was within my guard, and I gave up, not because I thought I ought to, but because of my inward appreciation of the work of a man who evidently was always on the job, ever alert and letting no chance escape him."

Walnuts High in Food Value.

The food value of walnuts is very high. They are very rich in fat, containing as much as 63 per cent, while the proteins amount to nearly 15 per cent. It has been calculated that 30 large walnut kernels contain as much fat as 2 1/2 pounds of lean beef, and yet the walnut is used as a supplement to a square meal. Added to this the glass of port, say two fluid ounces, contains besides 180 grains of alcohol, 70 grains of grape sugar. In the combination, therefore, we have all the elements which make for a complete diet—viz.: Fat, protein, carbohydrate, to which may be added mineral salts. Port and walnuts after a meal are therefore, from a nutritive point of view, "ridiculous excess,"
and may lead to digestive disturbance.
Both walnuts and port wine contain tannin, which is unsuited to some constitutions.

Easily Adjusted.

When the family for which Uncle
Erastus had worked so long and faithfully presented him with a mule he was overcome with joy.

"He's a bad kicker, Uncle Rast,"
said the son of the family. "I told father I didn't see what you could do with an animal that liked to kick and back better than anything else."

"It's got dat all planned," said Uncle Erastus, solemnly. "When I harnesses
dat animal into my cyart, if he acts
contumacious an' starts in to back, I's gwine to take him right out'n de
cyart, turn it round an' den harness
dat mule in hindsde befo'. Dat'll humor him, an' it'll get my cyart up de hill jes' de same."—Youth's Compan-

Origin of the Stocking.

A writer in a French newspaper has been investigating the origin of stockings. It appears that Henry II, when preparing for the marriage of his sister in 1559 first conceived the idea of silk hose, and was the first to wear silk knitted stockings at that epoch-making event. A hundred years later one Hindres established a factory for stockings in the Bois de Boulogne.
This was the first hosiery factory in France. It was a success at the start, and, when it received protection from the then ministers, it was a kind of gold mine. In 1663 the venture was turned into a company. From it arose
"the Society of Silk Stocking Makers."

Tragic.

"Here's another aeroplane horror," remarked Cynicus, looking up from his newspaper.

"Anybody killed?" asked Sillicus.
"No," growled Cynicus. "Couple married in one!"

HER DINING ROOM FURNITURE

How the Kind-Hearted and Gifted
Rosa Bonheur Helped a Young Wife.

"We are not brothers for nothing," Rosa Bonheur once wrote in jesting affection to her brother Isidore; and in truth the wonderful, quaint, boyish little woman, with her bright eyes, cropped curls and breezy ways, was almost more a brotherly chum than a sister to the "Dodore" whom she so dearly loved. Much of the time on her country estate, in her studio and among her animals, wild and tame, she wore the masculine costume which her manner of life required, to wear which she had—with one other woman, a famous explorer and archeologist—received express permission from the French government. Yet this very mannish little person was far from unwomanly in her sympathies; and her latest biography records a pretty incident related by her friend, Joseph Verdier, the landscape painter.

"One evening she was dining with me and some friends. Among the friends was a young lady recently married, who gave us an account of the furnishing of her house. All the rooms were furnished except the dining room; for this last her husband could not yet give her the money, and she was compelled to hold her little receptions in her sleeping room.

"After dinner Rosa asked me for a large sheet of drawing paper, and while we were talking she sketched a delightful hunting scene, which she signed with her full name. Then, under cover of a general conversation on music, while tea was being served, she approached the young wife, and said to her:

"Take this picture to Tedesco on your return to Paris and he will give you at least 1,500 francs for it. . . . Then you will be able to furnish your dining room."—Youth's Companion.

WAS VERY HARD TO PLEASE

Broker's Wife Would Appear to Be
One of Most Unreasonable of Women.

A prominent broker remarked the other day that he thought his wife was the hardest woman to please in the world. She was always asking him for money when he had none. "John," she would say, "give me 47 cents. The grocery boy is here with a bill." "I can't give you 47 cents," he would say, "but here's half a dollar." "Oh, you're the funniest man. You never have the right change." A dozen times a day she would ask for a few odd pennies.

Finally the broker went into the sub-treasury and obtained $100 worth of bright new pennies. There were 10,000 pennies and he packed them in a suit case and lugged them home. Then he went to a blacksmith shop and had an iron tripod made, and upon this he hung the suit case filled with pennies.

The next day the butcher came with his bill. It amounted to $5.67. "John," said the wife, "give me $5.67." "You will find it on the tripod," he explained. The wife returned in a moment in a great rage. "Why, John," she cried, "I'm not going to count out 567 pennies for this man; I'd be ashamed. It's a wonder you can never have the right change."

A Modern Type.
They are usually of a willful fatherhood, with flesh kept firm by the mace; their brows are lowering, and there is the perpetual hint of hardness in their faces; their apparel is exceedingly good, but their manners are ungente, their voices harsh and discontented; there is no light in their eyes, no charm or softness in their presence. They are fitting mates, perhaps, for the able-bodied pagans who are overrunning the earth, but hardly suitable nurses for a generation which must redeem us from materialism, if indeed we are to be redeemed. Facing them, one wonders if race suicide is not one of nature's merciful devices. How should they or their offspring ever replace our old-fashioned lady? Yet they are the natural product of much of our modern wealth, as she was the natural product of the comfortable life of a generation of two ago.—The Atlantic.

Motherly Admonition.
A New York woman of great beauty called one day upon a friend, bringing with her her 11-year-old daughter, who gives promise of becoming as great a beauty as her mother.

It chanced that the callers were shown into a room where the friends had been receiving a milliner, and there were several beautiful hats lying about. During the conversation the little girl amused herself by examining the milliner's creations. "Of the number that she tried on she seemed particularly pleased with a large black affair which set off her light hair charmingly. Turning to her mother, the little girl said:

"I look just like you now, mother, don't I?"
"Sh!" cautioned the mother, with uplifted finger. "Don't be vain, dear."—Lippincott's.

Outlook for Peace.
"Scientists tell us that the sea is gradually cutting the continents away."

"That being the case, I suppose the time will come when there won't be any land left above the water."
"It would seem so."
"Peace may some day be established after all."

TEST OF TRUE HOSPITALITY

Army Officer Tells of His Best Lesson
In Cooking and Conduct as a Host.

The old army officer, distinguished alike for his character and his high position, had said to his fellow guests at the little mountain camp that he regarded a knowledge of cooking as a necessary accomplishment for a gentleman and a soldier.

"Let me tell you," he continued, "where I received my first and best lesson in cooking, and in conduct at the head of the table.

"While I was yet a very young man I had the good fortune to attract the notice of an old French gentleman who, with the remnant of his former large fortune, had come to the neighborhood of Petersburg, Virginia, and established himself in a small cottage.

"In this little home the dining-room and kitchen were separated by a partition that extended only five feet above the floor. As monsieur was too poor to afford a waiter or cook, he himself performed the duties of both.

"He often honored me with an invitation to dinner, and as I sat in the dining-room, waiting for the meal to be served, I could see the old gentleman's head bobbing up and down as he tended his stew-pans in the kitchen."

"How awfully funny!" said some one, with a giggle.

"It never seemed in the least ludicrous to me," the old officer quietly responded. "After placing the dishes upon the table, my old friend would remove his apron, put on a rusty dress coat, and dispense the hospitality of his house with the grace and dignity of a prince."

"I understood! Noblesse oblige, and all that sort of thing," murmured the giggler, contritely. "All the same, your old gentleman, ministering at hidden altars and practicing mysterious rites behind that low partition, must have been something of a character."

The old officer gravely assented. "One that it was a privilege to know," he said.—Youth's Companion.

VICTOR HUGO'S ACACIA TREE

Planted in Childhood by Author, It Has Just Been Saved From Destruction in Paris.

An acacia tree, supposed to have been planted by Victor Hugo in his childhood has just been saved from destruction in Paris. The tree stands in the Boulevard Raspail, and its tall, curved trunk has long been familiar to the inhabitants of that quarter. A short time ago a certain M. Charulin bought the plot upon which it grew for the purpose of erecting a mansion. The whole quarter was disturbed at the news that a tree of such traditions was about to disappear.

When, however, M. Charulin heard that his new mansion was likely to demolish the object of a veneration with which he sympathized, he altered his architectural plans spontaneously, and built a semi-circular frontage to his house, just enclosing the acacia within its railings.

The association of it with Victor Hugo is disputed by authorities on that poet's life, but one may feel gratified that a tradition retains such vigorous life and that the marking of places connected with famous men is not yet purely municipal in Paris.

Gift for Business.
Willie's father conducts a boat-renting business on the Jersey side of the Hudson.

"I'll give you a dollar if you'll bail out the boats, Willie," said the father one morning after a rain.

There were 25 boats and Willie wasn't keen. So he was non-committal. A little later his friend Albert came over.

"I'll give you a quarter if you'll bail out the boats," said Willie to Albert.
"Gee! What d'ye take me for?" returned Albert as he surveyed the fleet of rowboats. "It's worth 35 cents, anyway."

"Well, all right, 35 then," said Willie.

Albert got busy and did the bailing, while Willie looked on and, Tom Sawyer-like, bossed the job.

The work done, Willie collected, paid Albert and pocketed 65 cents.

"That boy'll be a business man," remarked the father to Willie's mother later, but not in the boy's hearing.—New York Herald.

Large Enterprises Essential.
"Large personal fortunes acquired legitimately are in themselves an honorable testimony to talent and to toil; and, without large aggregations of capital, whether personal or corporate, great enterprises are not possible. And without great enterprises will the country show the marvelous growth which we deem an essential characteristic of American life, and will the masses of the people have the opportunities now so abundantly set before them to find employment and to develop their own fortunes, however relatively small those may be?"—Archbishop Ireland.

Up Against It.

Hokus—Why don't you try to get a job?
Pokus—Employers prefer to hire married men.

Hokus—Then why don't you get married?
Pokus—A girl won't marry a fellow unless he has a job.

For Women Who Care

Of course you use an antiseptic in your family and in the care of your own person, and you want the best.

Instead of what you have been using such as liquid or tablet antiseptics or peroxide, won't you please try Paxtine, a concentrated antiseptic powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

Paxtine is more economical, more cleansing, more germicidal and more healing than anything you ever used.

Paxtine
ANTISEPTIC

In the toilet—to cleanse and whiten the teeth, remove tartar and prevent decay. To disinfect the mouth, destroy disease germs, and purify the breath. To keep artificial teeth and bridgework clean and odorless. To remove nicotine from the teeth and purify the breath after smoking. To eradicate perspiration odors by sponge bathing.

As a medicinal agent for local treatment of feminine ills where pelvic catarrh, inflammation and ulceration exist, nothing equals hot douches of Paxtine. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. has been regularly advising their patients to use it because of its extraordinary cleansing, healing and germicidal power. For this purpose alone Paxtine is worth its weight in gold. Also for nasal catarrh, sore throat, inflamed eyes, cuts and wounds. All druggists, 25 and 50 cents a box. Trial box and testimony of 31 women free on request.

LOOK OUT
FOR THE CARS

DO YOU know of anyone who is old enough to read, who has not seen that
sign at a railroad crossing?

If everyone has seen it at some time or other, then why doesn't the railroad let the sign rot away? Why does the railroad company continue to keep those signs at every crossing?

Maybe you think, Mr. Merchant, "Most everybody knows my store, I don't have to advertise."

Your store and your goods need more advertising than the railroad needs to warn people to "Look Out for the Cars."

Nothing is ever completed in the advertising world.

The Department Stores are a very good example—they are continually advertising—and they are continually doing a good business.

If it pays to run a few ads round about Christmas time, it certainly will pay you to run advertisements about all the time.

distance from one city to another. Under this arrangement they can "buy the time" of big bands, lecturers, opera companies, etc., by the month, and the talent that will be presented at the Hopkinsville Chautauqu will be the very choicest in the country, including: The Royal Italian Guard Band (about forty pieces), which would be a more expensive organization than Sousa or Innes; LeBrun Grand Opera Company, The Chicago Glee Club, The Spanish Orchestra, The Collegian Male Quartet, Anitas Singing Orchestra, The Music Makers, The Boyds, Hon. Frank J. Cannon, Dr. Wm. A. Colledge, Chas. H. Fitzwilliam, Gov. E. W. Hoch, Opie Raul, and Hon. Joseph K. Griffis, Commonly known as "Tahan" who was Indian guide to Genl Custer, Secret Service man, Salvation Army man, Minister, and now one of the leading platform lecturers. The program will also include J. Walter Wilson or Mr. Plumstead as readers, and either Reno or Laurant, Magicians, and there will also be a specialist in English literature and a specialist on children's outdoor sports.

The Chautauqua Company furnishes their entire equipment and a permanent man and manager, and are going to carry out some very extensive advertising plans which will make Hopkinsville the center for a very wide circuit. Among other things they will bill one hundred three sheet posters for the larger attractions throughout the country and advertise in the newspapers of adjoining towns.

The following is a list of the enterprising men that made the Chautauqua possible for Hopkinsville: Thos. W. Long, Geo. C. Long, H. H. Abernathy, Walter S. Harned, Geo. A. Bleich, J. L. DAVIS HOME

Now Assured With Aid From The State.

With the passage in the House of the Senate bill appropriating $7,500 for the purchase of Jefferson Davis birthplace at Fairview, Ky., the memorial to the President of the Confederacy for which the Daughters of the Confederacy have been working, was made possible. The bill is now ready for the Governor's approval and he will surely sign it. The homestead is to be made into a state park, and a memorial will be erected in it. Plans for a Jefferson Davis Highway leading to the farm are already projected. Western Kentucky counties are considering the construction of a state highway extending from the Lincoln Road at Bowling Green through Hopkinsville and Paducah to the Mississippi River.

Make Good Wives.

South Hadley, Mass., March 13.—Nearly 50 per cent of the 7,000 women graduated from Mount Holyoke College are happily married, according to statistics compiled by Dr. Mary Hews, professor of economics. No divorces have been reported in fifty years.

To Promote a Sound Banking System.

In response to a joint and spontaneous movement of business men and others. Independent of party affiliations, the National Citizens' League was organized last year in Chicago for the promotion of a sound banking system. Its aim is to awaken the public to a realization that our credit system, dependent as it is on unrelated banks, is subject to most serious and unnecessary dangers from panics and stringency, and this absence of organized and united responsibility in our banks effects all classes, is a menace to legitimate business operations and a drag upon the national development.

The League has organizations in forty-four States, including Kentucky, whose branch is headed by J. M. Atherton, of Louisville, who is aided in the work by Directors from each Congressional District, as follows:
